Address, G. S. DAVIDSON & CO.,

Qu'Appelle, Assin.

THURSDAY, JULY 2nd, 1891.

It is generally conceded on all sides, except by those directly interested, that the scheme of Messrs.

Brett and Bats for a division of the Territories, governed by two or three Councils, would give general dissatisfaction, as well as being expensive, and no good results derived therefrom; and the question is also asked by many, Whose views do these gentlemen represent, and when was this matter ever discussed publicly prior to their wonderful mission to Ottawa?

When the Hon. Mr. Dewdney announced, during his canvass in the late election, that he had been able to make satisfactory arrangements with the C.P.R. for the construction of the extension to the Souris coal fields, the knowing ones of the opposition at once said that this was only an ante-election promise. They at least must now admit that for once they have been mistaken, as actual construction has now begun, and contractors are advertising for more men, and before many weeks we will have trains running on a third railway in Eastern Assiniboia.

SIR JOHN'S REQUESTS.

The following are substantially the contents of Sir John Macdonald's will. He appoints his son,

Hugh John Macdonald, the Hon.

Edgar Dewdney, Fred White and

Joseph Pope his executors, and he appoints them, together with Lady

Macdonald, to be guardians of his daughter. He leaves his Ottawa residence, Earncliffe, to Lady

Macdonald for life, and in the event of her desiring to sell it, it is to be sold and the proceeds thereof invested,

she to receive the income thereof during her life. In the event of her death before that of her daughter the latter is to receive the income, and after her death the family of his son is to be entitled to the money. He bequeaths his law library to his son, and all the contents

LATE FOREIGN NEWS

British keeping dogs to watch over camps for the German army is training them to hunt for soldiers hidden in the woods and fields, so that after a battle the wounded might be found and brought in.

British land values have declined. The splendid Dunstable estates in Perthshire have just been sold for £130,000, £155,000 having been paid for them in 1885 and very costly improvements having been added.

Diapers suddenly appears as the home of the most marvelous ivory carvers known, the Chinese and Swiss not excepted.

Long XIII will grant no more private audiences. Press comments upon the reports of the interviews rather than inability to hold them is the cause.

Long XIII has been added to the training of the French infantry. They are long exercised in the practice of boarding ramps for the transportation of troops, and the rapidity with which they get in and out is admirable.

A collision between a ship and an omnibus something rare: one is reported from Hamburg. The bus was crossing a bridge and the vessel plied her jibboom into it, but nobody was hurt.

At a socialistic meeting in Paris one of the fifteen present moved that the death of the Minister of the Interior, M. Combes, should be voted by the assembly. The President refused to put the motion to a vote.

A controversy upon the cruelty of firing horses has received an interesting contribution from Bombay. Horses and bullocks are fired there it seems, but the practice is attended to the firing of horses as a cure for stomach ache. In a certain village, the writer says, it was difficult to find man, woman, or child whose stomach was not cured with fire marks.

In the town of Kallia, Pomerania, a great potato country, the population, of between three and four thousand, shut up their houses, leave the keys with the Mayor, and scatter over Pomerania to the potato harvest, leaving the Mayor and bellringer alone in charge of the town.

From Madrid comes the story of a duel between a Spanish lady of a noble family and another lady who ranked as a professional beauty. The motive was jealousy. Daggers were the weapons, and the countsess, who was declared the victor, gave her opponent a wound in the arm, which, though not considered dangerous at first, has set up complications, which, it is feared, will necessitate amputation.

A manufacturer of ancient Egyptian mummies has been sent to the courts of Alexandria. He made his articles with carefully prepared skins, and had a good trade. Everything went well so long as he made Kings only, but when he tried the production of High Priests, he committed archaeological errors that led to his detection.

The French army budget for next year is larger by 78,000,000, than in 1891. In accordance with the increased amount, 3,000 officers, 7,500 men, and 1,000 horses are to be added to the army. Two new cavalry regiments will be formed. The army of France, for time of peace, will then number 220,000 officers, 517,000 men, 25,000 horses, and 12,000 mules.

Russia's last trial of armor plates, consisting of a Brown compound, a Schneider steel plate, and a Vickers nickel steel plate, the Vickers plate fired in the first place. The projectile, fired from a 6 inch gun with a muzzle velocity of 2,100 feet per second, passed clean through the Brown plate, cracked the Schneider plate seriously, and cracked the Vickers plate only slightly.

France's stagnation of population has been seriously discussed by the Academy of Medicine for several years, with the result of evoking strong sentiment for adopting various means of resisting epidemics such as the French have not inclined to hitherto, compulsory vaccination, for instance. Prof. Ferri, however, the President of the Academy, resolved upon a much more directly efficacious measure. He has offered to the peasants of his native parish, Arceville, a prize of 100 francs for each child born.

Telegrams from San Francisco say the beautiful young wife of an Italian resident named Travasso disappeared in 1888, and Travasso said he had gone back to her native land. On Friday she made her appearance in the street in a condition of nudity. The explanation she gave when taken to the police station was the effect that her husband had locked her up in her room for two years' jealous heat; but she might attract other men. Her age is twenty-five. She made her escape through a window.

In Austria and Russia, corn, flour, and bread are much cheaper than in Germany. The Germans on the frontier, therefore, daily cross in thousands to fetch supplies of the above articles from neighboring Austrian or Russian towns, as they are allowed to import 50 lbs. free of duty. The other day, towards evening, the inhabitants of the small village of Hausdorf, in Silesia, crossed into Bohemia to fetch food. When they returned the Customs guard called on them to stop to have their goods examined to see whether they did not exceed the quantity allowed. Several of the people, however, ran away, and the guard fired after them, wounding a girl and a man severely, and another man slightly. The girl's recovery is doubtful.

Three devoted young ladies awaited a wedding party outside a Paris church on Sunday. When the bridegroom appeared he was snatched by them with peers, while one of the young women besprinkled the groom and the guests with a yellow liquid, which was by some supposed to be vitriol, but turned out to be olive oil. A some such matrimonially attracted a large crowd, British for the scolding bride, who sought the protection of her father, was expressed emphatically. Two of the deceived ones were arrested, and the other took to flight. After some explanations on the part of the bridegroom the marriage was proceeded with.

The body of the late Baroness de Rochefort, who died at Cannes last January, and whose mortal remains were only a fortnight ago placed in a magnificent mausoleum at St. Etienne, has been profaned by robbers, who, crediting the groundless report, imagined that the Baroness had been buried with all her jewels. Last Friday, when the body of Baron de Rochefort entered the cemetery he perceived the door of the mausoleum ajar. He then discovered that the coffin had been taken from its place, and was lying near the spot half open. The robbers had then thoroughly searched the coffin over and over, but were not there.

A horrible and striking proof of the seriousness of the latest plague in Algeria has just reached Paris in the news of the death, at the Donor of St. Etienne, of M. Kunkel, a French naturalist, who was in Algeria on a mission to discover some means of destroying the locusts, and who had been suffocated almost as if through the vengeance of these insects. On May 17th he was lying near the spot half open. The robbers had then thoroughly searched the coffin over and over, but were not there.

When he was discovered at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon by some Arabs his beard, hair, and crown had been eaten away.

A ROYAL LIAR

King Milan as a Conversationalist.

A talk with King Milan is rich mental pliancy for the traveler who is weary and afloat in the dreary conversational wastes of the Balkans. It is an unmitigated delight, but should be partaken of with the mixture of much salt. It is a delightful conversation going by courtesy after the Serbian fashion, and concluded with Turkish coffee and cigarettes, and a more than Persian politeness. The Minister of the Interior, Mr. Komar, also in countries one is immediately forced to the conclusion that Mr. Oskar Wilde's lament "over the decay in the art of lying" is at least premature; and in conversation with the King, if you have before you, you are immediately caught, and participate in the eccentric poet's admiration and enthusiasm for the able and unblushing story-teller who never gives way to philosophic doubt, and who is aware that the criterion of truth is the story which the King tells quite calmly in his language, and in his own mind, and when warning to his work even soars to rhythmic rhyme. Your Serbian cannot help this. It is inherent in his language and innate in his mind. The Minister of the Interior, Mr. Komar, I would not venture to spell, made his budget report to the Skupstina three years ago in well-arranged quatrains. The budget did not balance as was the quatrains, and while his report was received as a remarkable piece of literary art, it was in the world of finance it excited distrust and suspicion, and Serbian bonds would have taken a tumble had they not been already deeply embedded in the bottom rock of Bosnian quatrains.

At a socialistic meeting in Paris one of the fifteen present moved that the death of the Minister of the Interior, M. Combes, should be voted by the assembly. The President refused to put the motion to a vote.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humors is inherited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also acquire poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the treatment of all these cases of blood impurities. This wonderful expulsive remedy cures scrofula, salt rheum, and all the taints which cause catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. In its preparation, its medicinal value, and the wonderful cures it accomplishes, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiarly adapted to the treatment of all these cases of blood impurities. It is a powerful purifier of the blood, and drives out the germs of disease from the system. It is a powerful purifier of the blood, and drives out the germs of disease from the system. Monks of the Desert.

The slaveholders extend their activity even to the very doors of Biskra, the head quarters of the recently organized order of the Warriors Monks of the Sahara, and one of the most dramatic features of the ceremony of the consecration of the monks was when Cardinal Lavigne led to the altar a little brown girl barely nine years old, who had succeeded in concealing herself, and in effecting her escape from a slave caravan passing through the desert. A sudden movement of the child caused her to drop something that she was holding concealed beneath the folds of her djellaba. The venerable prelate, who had been kneeling in prayer, started up. It was a small dusky hand—the hand of the little girl who stood beside him, and which in her wanton cruelty had been cut off by her captors. Holding it aloft, and pointing it towards the altar, he exclaimed: "This is the hand of the slave, which has been cut off by the hand of the slaveholder. May it serve to direct your line of march. May it serve to God, for France and for humanity!"

"German Syrup"

For Throat and Lungs

Homorrhage "I have been ill for five years, have had the best medical advice, and took the first dose in some doubt. This result was in a few hours sleep. There was no further hemorrhage till next day, when I had a slight attack, which stopped almost immediately. By the third day all trace of blood had disappeared and I had recovered much strength. The fourth day I sat up in bed and ate my dinner, the first solid food for two months. Since that time I have gradually gotten better and am now able to move about the house. My death was daily expected and my recovery has been a great surprise to my friends and the doctor. There can be no doubt about the effect of German Syrup, as I had an attack just previous to its use. The only relief was after the first dose." J. R. Lott, Adelaide, Australia.

New Italian War Vessels.

The United States has launched from the yard of Messrs. Orlando Bros., at Leghorn, Italy, two new war vessels, and are each of the capacity of about 2,300 tons. Their length is 80 meters, beam 12 meters, and draft 4 meters. The engines, which have been constructed at the works of Messrs. Orlando, are on the triple expansion system, and develop 6,500 h. p. A speed of nineteen knots per hour will be attained. The vessels have been built by the Italian naval authorities, and the engines have been designed by Messrs. Orlando. The engines are intended to develop the maximum of power with the least possible weight, and are said to combine all the latest improvements in naval engineering.

Germany's squadron of evolution will be sent out in two divisions of three battleships, a dispatch boat, and seven torpedo boats each. They will be manned by 250 officers and 5,000 seamen.

More information is now to hand respecting the murder committed at Oyem, in the Department of the Aïr, by a prehistoric boy named Agel. This youthful candidate for the halberd is called Jean Baptiste Marce. A few days ago he noticed a boy of four into a meadow under the pretext of plucking buttercups and daisies, and there armed himself with a stout stick he found in the meadow. He then followed the boy down to the bank of an adjoining river, and Marce, telling his little companion to look down at a trout, threw him headlong into the stream. The child made a struggle to reach the bank, but Marce kept him with the stick and lashed his head and back with stones, just as he did when drawing a cat. Being unsuccessful in his endeavor to keep his victim under water, Marce dragged him on to the bank, broke his teeth, and strangled him. The juvenile murderer was arrested subsequently by two gendarmes and placed in Natus Prison. He is now awaiting trial for the murder of the boy named Agel.

The French have seized St. George's Bay, N.S.W., and assumed territorial possession of the waters, refusing permission to the Newfoundlanders to either fish or sell bait.

The French have seized St. George's Bay, N.S.W., and assumed territorial possession of the waters, refusing permission to the Newfoundlanders to either fish or sell bait.

Germany's squadron of evolution will be sent out in two divisions of three battleships, a dispatch boat, and seven torpedo boats each. They will be manned by 250 officers and 5,000 seamen.

More information is now to hand respecting the murder committed at Oyem, in the Department of the Aïr, by a prehistoric boy named Agel. This youthful candidate for the halberd is called Jean Baptiste Marce. A few days ago he noticed a boy of four into a meadow under the pretext of plucking buttercups and daisies, and there armed himself with a stout stick he found in the meadow. He then followed the boy down to the bank of an adjoining river, and Marce, telling his little companion to look down at a trout, threw him headlong into the stream. The child made a struggle to reach the bank, but Marce kept him with the stick and lashed his head and back with stones, just as he did when drawing a cat. Being unsuccessful in his endeavor to keep his victim under water, Marce dragged him on to the bank, broke his teeth, and strangled him. The juvenile murderer was arrested subsequently by two gendarmes and placed in Natus Prison. He is now awaiting trial for the murder of the boy named Agel.

MIRACLE OF MODERN DAYS.

Hamilton's Father One of the Most Remarkable Cases on Record.

Totally Disabled For Years.

One of the most remarkable cures in the history of medicine has just been effected in this city. The frame of a first speeder throughout the land. Over four years ago Mr. John Marshall, then employed as manager of Mr. J. C. Williams' coal oil refinery works, sustained a fall, which the time was not thought to be serious. He doctored and his trouble grew worse and contracting cold after cold upon his work entirely. His troubles developed into a nervous disorder, helped by medical treatment, but he was unable to do any work. He lost the use of his legs entirely and could not raise himself from a chair except by the use of a crutch and a stick. Though there was power in his legs there was no feeling in them. He could not walk, cold as he could not be susceptible to feeling. He could take his stick and hammer the flesh on the sound of blows filled the house. During the course of these years he had been in the hospital several times, but he was not cured. He was then advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. He tried it, and he was cured. THE END

Canada's Position in the British Empire.

One of the results of the disputes between Canada and the United States, and the North Atlantic fishery trouble and the Behring difficulty—is that our neighbors are thereby gaining a clearer conception of the position of the Dominion and of her proper position in the British Empire. The truth there was much need for this last of some of the utterances made by representative citizens of the republic are to regard the index of the general opinion in this country. Hamilton Freeman, in consideration in 1869 President Grant pressed his surprise, in one of his messages to Congress, that the "Imperial Government," which had delegated to him, as share, of its jurisdiction or control of its shore fisheries to the Colonial authorities known as the Dominion of Canada, that the semi-independent but irresponsible Government exercised its delegated powers in an unfriendly manner. Hamilton Freeman Secretary of State, "Very shrewdly rebuked the interpretation of the Government of Canada"—to quote the language Mr. Elihu, in his review of the correspondence of the United States and Great Britain because it had pressed on the Imperial authorities its right to be consulted as to choice of Commissioners appointed to operate for the value of the Canadian fishery under the Washington Treaty of 1842. Coming down to a later time, when bearing sea difficulty arose to create a feeling between Canada and the United States, the latter Government declared the position that Canada, whatever might beher stake in the question at issue, should be kept quietly in the background, and that the United States settle matters with little interference as possible from mere outsiders like Canadians. Is it any wonder when the leaders exhibit such dense ignorance of Canada's constitutional rights and responsibilities, that they have been so ready to guard the action of our government in connection with these long-standing disputes as an interference unwarranted and imprudent?

Although through the means by which the false impressions regarding the Dominion are being removed are not such as neighborhood could have deserved, although the fact that these misleading dispatches may be deplored by all who pray for peace among nations, it is nevertheless some consolation to know that authorities at Washington are beginning to recognize that in all matters of Dominion affairs we must be heard, and the fact clearly apprehended will tend to prevent future misunderstandings and complications. It is well for the Americans of all nations to know that, as the Quarterly Review has lately declared, "The Queen still the head of the executive authority, and can alone initiate treaty with foreign nations—that being an acknowledgment of complete sovereignty—and appeals are made to courts within certain limitations—it is admitted principle that, so far as Canada has been granted legislative rights and privileges by the Imperial Parliament, she is practically sovereign in the exercise of all those powers, as long as they do not conflict with treaty obligations of the present empire." It is true that the Queen in Canada vetoes acts of the Canadian Parliament, but this power is only exercised under the condition that no more be constitutionally used in cases of ordinary Canadian statutes affecting the Dominion solely, than can the sovereign veto the laws of the Imperial Parliament protecting subjects of the Crown still existing, but not exercised in England thodays of Queen Anne, and now consistent with modern laws and Parliamentary Government.

Canadian Cattle in England.

The recent seizure of Canadian cattle in Liverpool on suspicion of pleuro-pneumonia being on board is a matter of universal concern to the people of this Dominion. The people of Canada enjoys the peculiar privilege of sending their cattle to Great Britain, a privilege which at the present rate of exportation means a gain of not less than $2,000,000 annually to the people of this country. That we are in danger of losing this Canada is a very real thing. Periodical detentions have a significant effect does not bode well for the future of this important industry. Whatever the cause of the loss of incomes at the moment in the mother land, and for what reason to fear that interested parties at the bottom of the trouble is clear that the suspicions of the English authorities are being aroused in respect to Canadian cattle, and that the situation has so far been discovered to warrant fears. Still, to allay these suspicions is first duty of our exporters and authorities. The utmost vigilance should be exercised in the inspection of property shipped. No animal be allowed to be put on board who is not in every respect satisfactory. Besides, it might be well to follow the suggestion of our exporters and invite the Imperial Government to allow that persons of their own choosing who would see unaffected animals be allowed to pass, case is certainly urgent and every legitimate ground of complaint is being threatened. A few more details of the trouble we shall find ourselves in the same category with other countries; and this whether our suspicions against us are well-founded or not.

"Japan for the Japanese."

Japan is showing herself an apt scholar. Following the lead of those countries whose watchword is, "Our country for ourselves," Japan is showing that she is learning to love Japan for the Japanese. Her existing treaties with foreign powers are satisfactory, being too liberal. Hence the Government is proposing a revision of these treaties, and a reduction of the tariff changes: (1.) the raising of the cotton tariff at 12 per cent in place of the existing rate of 5 per cent; (2) deterring foreigners from the right of acquiring landed rights, property, mines, and mining shares, or taking part in Japanese coasting trade; and (3) the abrogation of the present Consular Courts after a period of five years, and the meantime to be established a court for the trial of cases arising within the foreign consuls leaving to the Japanese courts all cases where the parties concerned be foreigner or not, which arises outside the concession. It is so evident that the Japanese Government which has exchanged communications with the German Government regarding the proposals, and that both Governments oppose the changes as illiberal and exclusive.

The Swarming Millions of the Indies.

The population of British India, according to the census that was taken in February 1871, was 100,000,000. In the year 1881 there were ten years of 20,000,000. There is an additional population of 65,000,000 those East Indian States that are under British rule subject to British influence. In the most fertile districts of the new homes in regions where the population is less dense than it is in the provinces of Bengal and Oudh. Mr. Gifford says that the single province of Bengal, which has nearly half the population of the whole of the United States, the population is 60,000,000 more than that of the American public, though Bengal is almost wholly agricultural, and has scarcely any manufacturing industry. Every square mile there are 715 persons to every square mile of cultivable land.

that advance to the front annually thousands of men, and in the year in which the war is ending, the number of children that are born is so great that it is estimated that there will be a million more in the world than there are now. It is a fact that the population of the world is increasing at a rapid rate, and it is a fact that the population of the world is increasing at a rapid rate, and it is a fact that the population of the world is increasing at a rapid rate.

Centipede Poison.

A strange story comes from Bax in Western Arkansas. A family of persons left their home in the month of March, trying to reach Texas of their own, and one night camped by a river, where they were told of a centipede. The family was first asked to the tent, and the centipede was found in the tent, and the centipede was found in the tent, and the centipede was found in the tent.

New Torpedo Protection

The Nile battle ship lately put back of the Isle of Wight, for the purpose of testing the new invention of Captain Wilson, of the Nile. The Nile is the first vessel in which steel booms have been substituted for the old wooden spar-booms. The new booms are of steel, and are of the length of 40 feet, which is under the limit of safety, and arranged at equal distances along the sides. The new booms are also supported by a system of rings, which are also supported by a system of rings, which are also supported by a system of rings.

Benefits of Physical Development

It is interesting to note how the public mind has been influenced by the thought and action of the late President Hyde, of the University of Toronto. The late President Hyde, of the University of Toronto, was a man of great physical development, and his physical development was the result of his physical development, and his physical development was the result of his physical development.

Little Local Links in the Town's Chain of History.

QU'APPELLE.

—We have received an interesting letter from Sintuluta, which will appear next week.

—Mr. A. C. Paterson returned on Saturday from a trip to the boundary.

—The Fort Qu'Appelle cricket club passed through town on Tuesday, on their way to Regina, to play the Regina team.

—Wheat is beginning to head out, and farmers are jubilant over the prospects. We hope nothing will happen to disappoint them.

—Messrs. Daymon and Lester, of Pleasant Plains, were in town on Tuesday, and report the crops in that locality looking unusually well.

—Owing to the pressure on our time, we are unable to give the matter of the Memorial Fund our attention this week, but will in our next issue.

—The party who carried off the foot bridge, on the west side of the town, would oblige those who have to cross the creek that way, if, after they take a model of it they would return it.

—At the last regular meeting of Indian Head Masonic Lodge, the following officers were elected, for this year:—James Conn, W.M.; W. L. Wait, S.W.; D. MacConn, J.W.; H. Campbell, Secretary, R. Crawford, Treasurer.

—The Minister of the Interior has ordered that the instructions recently issued withdrawing cancelled pre-emptions for homesteads shall be revoked. Such lands, therefore, will henceforth be subject to re-entry as formerly upon the terms and conditions mentioned in the Dominion Land Act.

—The Government has decided to extend the life of the Legislative Assembly for another year. The census will be known by that time, and no doubt some of the constituencies will require redistribution. We understand that there will be extended to the assembly a great measure of responsibility, and the present misunderstanding of the North-West act will be wiped out.

—As will be seen by advertisement in another column, the Agricultural Societies of Qu'Appelle, Indian Head, Wolsley, and Grenfell will hold live stock markets consecutively. We are assured that there will be large quantities of good stock, on the ground, and we trust that there will be sufficient buyers to pick them up.

—An interesting event occurred a few days ago in Whitewood in the marriage of the daughter of Mr. R. S. Lake, land examiner, to Mr. Dan McLane, of Indian Head. The bride was driven to the Presbyterian Church by her father, and a very large assembly of guests and visitors were in attendance to witness the ceremony, amongst them being Count and Countess Koffina, Mr. and Mrs. Limoyes, Mr. Garnett, Mr. and Mrs. J. Knowler, Mr. Francis Coggrave and daughter, Mr. George Bird, Rev. Mr. Hamilton, and Mr. M. McLane. The bride was the recipient of a large number of presents, amongst which was a magnificent silver tea set from her father and mother. Many congratulations were offered by those present.

—The friends of Major Nesbitt will regret to hear of his death, which took place at Carwright, Man. on Saturday, 27th, and was buried at St. John's cemetery. The Major was for a number of years a resident of Qu'Appelle, and by his affable manner and gentlemanly bearing won a great many friends in this district. Major Nesbitt, who was born near Grahamsville, county of Peel, distinguished himself as lieutenant of the Grahamsville company, 36th Battalion, which defended the Welland Junction during the Fenian raid, for which service he was rapidly promoted to the rank of major under the late Lieutenant Colonel Dennis, and being a good disciplinarian, he was appointed drill-sergeant to that battalion. He has filled various positions of trust under the Dominion Government in Manitoba. A loyal citizen, affable, gentlemanly and obliging, his early demise will be regretted by his many friends and well-wishers.

Dr. CARLTON begs to inform the public that he has engaged the services of Mr. J. K. HUNT, a first class graduated pharmacist, who will make it his business to satisfy the public demand for everything in the way of Drugs and Stationery, both as regards price and quality.

THE NEW AIR SHIP.
The new air ship travels 200 miles an hour, good time, but none too quick if one wanted Haggard's Yellow Oil. This peerless, pain-soothing remedy is a prompt and pleasant cure for sore throat, colds, rheumatism, pains in the chest and back, neuralgia. For external and internal use. Price 25c.

HEALTH IN HERBS.
Health-giving herbs, hanks, roots, and berries are carefully combined in Burdock Blood Bitters, which regulate the secretions, purify the blood, and renovate and strengthen the entire system. Price $1 a bottle, six for $5. Less than 1 cent a dose.

SINTALUTA.

Mr. Mitchell has moved into his new house.

Mr. Dutton, the Spring Conlee school teacher, moves into town today (Wednesday).

Through the kindness of his neighbours, a great part of Mr. Rowe's new hotel was raised on Monday, and at night they "tripped the light fantastic toe" in one of the grain warehouses. A very enjoyable time was spent.

INDIAN HEAD.

There was a good turn out at the last practice of the Rifle Association, and many good scores were made.

It is hoped that farmers will take advantage of the market to be held here on the 8th July. The Agricultural Society are having it well advertised, and buyers are expected from Winnipeg and other points. Should the market prove successful it is intended to have one each month on a regular date.

A large number of farmers attended a meeting held to consider the advisability of building a farmers' elevator here. Sintuluta was well represented. Mr. Braithwaite was called upon, and explained that he had been authorized by the Municipal Council to visit Portage la Prairie, to make enquiries into the cost, etc., of the farmers' elevator there, and gave a most satisfactory report, showing it to be a great success. It was unanimously decided by the meeting that joint stock companies be formed to build or buy an elevator here and one at Sintuluta.

GRENFELL.

We much regret to hear of the death of Priscilla, daughter of Mr. Thomas Dynes. Which took place on 27th June, of consumption.

A special sitting of the Supreme Court Judicial District of Eastern Assiniboia was held at Grenfell on Wednesday and Thursday last, the Hon. Justice Wetmore presiding. The following were present: R. H. Wyssman, F. F. Forbes, Sheriff Murphy, Sgt. Cochran, N.W.M.P. Mr. Wyssman, acting clerk.

The first case on the docket was the Queen vs. Cook alias Russell, and was reserved.

In the case of the Queen vs. Milbergall the prisoner was charged with breaking into the house of Edmund Dalton J. Francis, on his homestead north of Grenfell, and stealing his goods and chattels. Mr. R. H. Wyssman appeared for the Crown and Mr. F. F. Forbes for the prisoner. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was discharged.

GRENFELL TURF CLUB.

The annual meeting of the Grenfell Turf Club was held on the 26th June. It had been decided to combine the competitions to horses owned within 30 miles of Grenfell, and the result was that a considerable number of new horses came to the front. The weather, which had given sufficient signs of brightening up in the morning to prevent the stewards from postponing the races, turned out most unfavorably during the afternoon, and the events came off in a heavy downfall which kept the attendance within very small limits. The chief event of the day, the horse race, resulted in a genuine surprise, Mr. Bonham coming in easily on his buckskin gelding in each heat. There was a good race for second each time. In the 14.2 race Mr. Hood's gelding came in an easy winner. In the 14.2 Mr. Ellis's pony created another surprise by coming to the fore. The hurdle race, two miles over twelve flights of hurdles, created much excitement and the slippery nature of the ground made riding a somewhat dangerous pastime, two jockeys having severe croppers. Mr. Bonham again won on his buckskin gelding. The heavy going of course threw our sportsmen considerably out in their calculations, but all the events were well contested and the horse that could stay best generally managed to come in. After the close of the horse races some enthusiasts were found willing to brave the rain and compete in foot races, jumping, etc. Mr. J. F. Hewitt however carried nearly all before him in this line.

A young Englishman named James Such eloped with Mrs. McGillivray, a married woman from Calgary on the 26th inst., taking the train for Vancouver. Until a few weeks ago Such, McGillivray and his wife were working at the Quorn ranch. McGillivray then got work at Screen's ranch south of High River, his wife and Such coming to Calgary. Such is twenty-six years of age, the woman thirty and very plain. She took her little girl and all McGillivray's money with her.—Free Press.

WINTER SPORTS.

THE SLAUGHTER OF GAME.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

Dear Sir,—I wish to call attention to the butchery and wholesale slaughter of game that is daily occurring in the North-West Territories, and hope that strong pressure will be brought upon the Legislative Assembly to induce them to repeal the existing game laws (?) and adopt those more severe and stringent, and have them faithfully and impartially executed. Owing to the new railway in northern Montana, large quantities of deer and antelope have been driven into Canadian territory, which are being hunted by Indians, who kill bucks, does, and fawns. To show how this method of extermination (as it will undoubtedly prove) is proceeding, I will give the following instance:—Two Sioux Indians and their families returned lately from a hunt which lasted about ten days. They brought with them no less than thirty-four antelope hides which these two Indians had shot, also quantities of wild fowl and prairie chicken eggs. And this is the so-called "Close Season." These are non-treaty Indians, belonging to the other side of the boundary, and there are lots more of their kind hunting now. What chance has a law-abiding resident of the North-West of having legitimate sport when it is so effectually destroyed in close season? If some means are not soon adopted to prevent this state of things, there will be in a few years but little game for anyone, black or white, to shoot. The United States have woken up fully to the necessity of game protection throughout the Union, each State adopting new laws, those of Maine being very stringent. Therefore, let us do the same before it is too late, and profit by their experience. Let the laws on transportation of game from territories, possession and sale of same in close season be rigorously enforced; also make it unlawful for non-treaty Indians to kill game out of season, or the killing of the female of deer or antelope at any time; to have a game commissioner and wardens appointed at salaries to strictly enforce the Game Laws throughout the North-West. This, I imagine, would meet with the approval of all, and effectually prevent the extinction of our remaining large game, in the manner that buffalo, moose, and elk have been exterminated.—Yours, etc., FAUN.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE.

The wet June has fulfilled the old English proverb "A dripping June puts all things in tune," and the crops are all well advanced. The rye was headed on June 21st, and from the garden onions, radishes, and lettuce have been supplied to the dining table for the last three weeks. The young stock also look remarkably healthy. Mr. Weaver arrived at the College last week from England as an agricultural student. The Bishop is on a visit to British Columbia, and is expected back about the 13th of July. Mr. Lucius Hardyman, teacher on Poor Man's Reserve, having lost a near relative in England, is on his way there for a brief holiday, but quite intends to return to the North-West. On his way from the reserve to the college en route for England he lost his horse about thirty miles to the north of the Fort. It got away from where it was tethered whilst Mr. Hardyman and his companion (Mr. George Grant, student at the college) were at luncheon. The incident, obliging him to walk a long distance, has compelled him to delay his departure till the next mail.

EXCURSION FROM ONTARIO.

The express from the east on Thursday last was the longest passenger train ever arriving in Winnipeg. It consisted of nineteen coaches, drawn by one of the new mogul locomotives. A large proportion of the passengers were excursionists from Ontario and Quebec, who principally came to the province with a view to settlement. Mr. W. D. Scott, Manitoba's travelling representative in Ontario, came through with the party, and had under his charge 413 passengers. He was accompanied by Rev. Father Beaudry, who has been working in the interest of immigration in Quebec, and had with him one hundred settlers from that province. Most of the excursionists were distributed to various points in Manitoba by the several outgoing trains, a considerable number going out over the Southwestern branch. Many remained in Winnipeg to examine the land in that vicinity. Speaking with Mr. Scott as to prospects of settlers from the east, he volunteered the remark that the outlook was the brightest ever known. The season has been very dry in Ontario, and there was scarcely any hope of a crop, in fact, in many districts there is not sufficient hay to maintain one-half the live stock.

THE KEY STONE.

Regular action of the bowels is the key-stone of health. The use of B.B.R. invigorates it, and cures constipation, dyspepsia, etc. Miss F. Williams, 445 Bloor Street, Toronto, writes: "I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for constipation and pain in the head with great success. I improved from the second dose."

CHURCH OF ENGLAND DISCIPLINE.

The new Clergy Discipline bill, supported by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, has made a decided sensation among the clergy of the Church of England, who, for the first time, are held to a strict responsibility for good behavior. The bill has received hearty support owing to the difficulty of dealing with clergymen under the law as it has been. The new bill provides that if a clergyman has been sentenced to penal servitude, or hard labor, or convicted of a minor but disgraceful offence, or been the respondent, or co-respondent, in a successful suit for absolute divorce he is deprived of his benefice. When he is deprived of his benefice, the sheriff is to see that he is kept away from it instead of being permitted, like a certain suspended clergyman, to guide visitors through the church and receive gratuities. In another instance a clergyman had been tried for crime, but was got off with a conviction of misdemeanor, and sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment. As the only way to get rid of him and prevent his return from goal to the pulpit, Dr. Magee, new Archbishop of York, took advantage of a clause in the law which made a benefice vacant unless the clergyman performed two services a year if ordered by the Bishop.

DUTY OFF SUGAR.

OTTAWA, June 23.—"Sugar is on the free list!" That is the pivotal point upon which swings the budget debate to-day. A free breakfast table, free tea, free coffee, free sugar, will undoubtedly be as popular with the country as it is with the House, and the rigid economy rendered necessary by the taking off of the taxation on one of the necessities of life will be assented to in the same spirit in which it is proffered. Cheapness which arises by reducing the revenue must be accompanied by a decreased expenditure, but even the most rapid Grit will not find fault with a policy so manifestly in the general interest. To-night an utterly flabbergasted rabble of Grit politicians had counselled during recess to devise, if possible, some means of meeting a policy that it was evident the country would unitedly endorse. What has been done? In so many words, raw sugar has been placed upon the free list, while at the same time adequate protection is maintained against the importation of refined sugars. This cheapness in the article itself is ensured, while the value of manufacturing in our own country is preserved. This means a loss of revenue of $3,600,000 per year which has to be faced. One million and a half is to be met by an increase of duties on liquors and tobacco; the balance is to be made up by rigid economy. In addition one-half the duty is taken off salt, another gift of value to the consumer of necessities. Protection to native industries, low taxation and perfect economy are the watchwords of the Administration—watchwords that will receive the endorsement of the people of Canada from end to end of the country.—Empire.

NOR-WEST GOVERNMENT.

Premier Brett and Mr. Betts, of the North-West Legislative Council, who have been at Ottawa for some time interviewing the Government respecting the demand of the North-West for a larger measure of responsible government, arrived at Winnipeg on Friday last, en route home. Premier Brett will remain in the city until Sunday, but Mr. Betts proceeded west in the afternoon. The Premier was interrogated by a Free Press reporter as to the result of their visit to the capital, and in reply he stated that they were perfectly satisfied with the outcome of their negotiations with the Government. He is fully convinced that the North-West will secure everything that has been asked for, even to a division of the territories into three governmental districts. Premier Brett says that the public appears to have misunderstood this proposition for a division. It was not asked that three districts should be established with an elaborate system of government, but with a sort of large county council, and that one Lieutenant-Governor should preside over the whole Territories as at present. Premier Brett says that the Territories are too large to be administered satisfactorily or economically from one centre, hence the request for a division. No legislation will be introduced in the Dominion House this session regarding Northwest government, excepting a bill to prolong the life of the Assembly, it having been decided to defer action until the census has been taken. In the meantime the Federal Government will formulate a plan, which it is expected, will be very liberal.—Free Press.
